EDITOR'S MESSAGE

By Rhonda K. Levinson

Sorry for the big lapse between newsletters. This has just been a crazy spring, hasn't it? First, I thought that we would wait until after the first ride, and then we had a horse go lame, and then my dad was in the hospital, and then we had to go to New York for a wedding, and then work was crazy, and then . . . So, with Ruthie very kindly and generously helping once again (despite everything that's been happening in her life) we're finally getting this version out to you.

So, in addition to all of the crazy, yucky stuff that's been happening, Maxi and I completed our first Open ride at the Ride to the Rescue at Perry Lake! We trotted, cantered and galloped every non mucky, non rocky foot of the ride, and only had 90 seconds to spare when we finished, but we did in fact finish. Whew. I'm glad I finally did an Open ride, but I only have one thing to say to each of those folks who kept telling me how much easier Open is than Novice, and how much less tired I'd be after an Open ride: "Liar, liar, pants on fire!" Holy cow I was tired. And my horse had absolutely no sense of humor left after 30+ miles on Saturday. Every time I saddle Maxi, I show her the saddle first and say, "Ready?" and that's her cue to stand still to be saddled. So Saturday night, after riding 30+ miles in the muck, I was putting her saddle away to keep it from being rained on and thought it would be funny to tease Maxi. I showed her the saddle and said, "Ready?" and she actually pinned her ears and made a horrible face at me! I thought it was hysterical, but she didn't think it was funny AT ALL. Sunday morning, she was ready and willing to head back out, however, and I wasn't as sore as I thought I'd be. I was able to ride with really great people and all in all had a great time!

I was really looking forward to the Hill and Dale ride and trying Open again when Maxi and I were in better shape, but Maxi and I never actually got in better shape (it seemed like it rained every time I had a free day), and then the ride was rescheduled for this fall. What a bummer! Now the next Region 6 ride that we can make it to isn't until September. Man, I think I'm going to go into withdrawal! I may have to take a second job so that I can afford the gas to get to the Nebraska National Forest ride. Hey, maybe my bank will give me a personal loan for gas. I should call them . . .

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE*"Pain is weakness leaving the body...right?"

By Sarah J. Garcia

The 2008 ride season has officially begun! The first ride of the season, Ride to the Rescue CTR at Perry Lake, KS was a great success with 43 competitors starting the ride including several first time competitors. This was a milestone ride for me as it was my first Open ride as an ADULT. I emphasize 'adult' because the experience is much different going from a junior rider with an invincible and durable body to an adult with a body worn down from active duty Marine Corps service! I was looking forward to the new challenge of Open competition and not sure what I would encounter...so many possibilities! True to form, horsemanship judge Priscilla Lindsey started Saturday morning off with a sidepass in hand followed by a mount for Open. I was thanking my lucky stars I had practiced the in-hand sidepass religiously after my horse showed me that was something we needed to work on at the Last Chance ride in Oklahoma, rather than sidepassing, we backed a half a country mile instead! That is what I love about this sport...you start to think you have a handle on things and then you're knocked back on your rear. It is humbling needless to say! Out on the trail, my horse Phoenix was rather enjoying the trotting as it is his favorite gait, until about the 15th mile! He started slowing his pace and looking back at me saying, "Mom, aren't we usually walking by now?" He got over it quickly though and kept on moving - I've competed a lot of different breeds in CTR and of them all, this little Morgan has shown me the most intelligence, athleticism, willingness and heart. We came into camp for lunch after approximately 20 miles and Phoenix thought he was done...after all, in the past we were done after about 20 miles! He looked at me like I was crazy when I went to climb back into the saddle - I looked at ME like I was crazy for climbing back into the saddle as the pain in my body had already started to creep in. I was glad my cohorts Trish Cleveland and Yvette Haerberle were feeling it too (no offense guys!). I didn't feel quite as bad for myself anymore! We were pushing it for time coming in Saturday but made it in with time to spare; now the fun begins. I took care of Phoenix and made sure he was comfortable then went to tend to myself which took considerably more time since I could not move beyond a 90 year old's pace at this point. Sitting down into my chair with an adult beverage was a relief, getting up was the problem. The final obstacle of the evening was managing to climb into the gooseneck to get to my bed...glad Priscilla wasn't judging that one – I would have been nailed for being “hung up in the stirrup” and “heavy in the saddle”!

I don't think I've ever fallen asleep more quickly nor slept so soundly at a CTR. I did not realize the worst was yet to come. Upon awaking to my sickeningly happy alarm, I slowly tested the waters by moving one limb at a time – yep, still there. Maybe this isn't so bad. Then I had to get out of the gooseneck and realized just how badly my muscles were screaming as well as being very uncooperative. At this point, the old Marine Corps slogan “Pain is weakness leaving the body” popped into my head but it didn't make me feel any more motivated or stronger like it is supposed to do. I would say the pain was there to stay and the weakness wanted to hang around with it. I would rate my MAW as a ONE at this point...how the heck was I going to do 20 more miles today? I found once I got over the initial sting of sitting back in the saddle and warming myself up I would be okay! Phoenix seemed fresher the second day than the first and it seemed like he found his “groove”. We were doing great until we hit the two mile marker and realized we only had about 15 minutes to maximum time! Tally-ho! Phoenix and I were being the “rabbits” of our group and the last words out of Trish's mouth were, “Get that pony moving! We gotta run em' in!!!” Once again, Trish, Yvette and I were moving like bats out of h#*@. Somewhere there was an observation obstacle at a big muddy ditch...it was all a blur at that point. Finally crested the last hill into camp at a lope and ran (no loping here!) and made it to the timers with little room to spare. Mocha and Phoenix liked racing back into camp, hopefully they don't expect that every time!

Despite pain, stress and new challenges, I came to the conclusion...I LOVE OPEN. Crazy? Absolutely! Now I know what everyone is talking about when they say Open riders have more fun – I would have to agree. Thanks to Trish and Yvette for being great riding partners and keeping me going and thanks to Karen Everhart, Hope White and Vickie White for putting on a successful ride. Hope to see you all at the next Region 6 ride for the EKAHA Hill n' Dale CTR! (By the way, you all get a free pass to make fun of me at the next ride now that I've exposed my vulnerable side!)

RIDE TO THE RESCUE - A SUCCESS FOR RIDERS AND HORSES

Neither rain nor mud could dampen spirits at this season's first (and so far ONLY) ride in Region 6. The Ride to the Rescue was held April 25th through the 27th at Perry Lake in Kansas. Proceeds from the ride benefited Rainbow Meadows rescue, founded and operated by Region 6's own Karen Everhart. Karen founded Rainbow Meadows rescue to care for neglected and abandoned horses and in 2005, the IRS granted the rescue 501(c)3 designation.

Truffles Catering of Wichita donated all meals, so that all funds raised with meals purchases by riders went directly to rescue. Wind Rider Tack, Roy Frey Western Store, Prairie Winds Specialty Design, Little Joe's Handmade Horse Tack, Kim Laster (farrier) and First State Bank & Trust also made donations of funds, prizes and raffle items. Donations by these vendors and by various individuals at the ride, along with ride fees, netted the rescue $4,295.89 in funds.

HILL & DALE RESCHEDULED – November 8-9

The Hill & Dale Ride previously scheduled for June 14 and 15, at Hillsdale Lake in Kansas has been rescheduled to November 8 and 9, 2008. For those trying for year end awards, this is the final weekend of the NATRC 2008 ride year. If you had entered for the June 14-15 ride date, you are already entered for the new date of November 8-9. If you are unable to attend the ride on its new date, please notify ride management and any deposit will be refunded. Please direct any questions to J.R. Kendall at jrken@att.net or Susan Manley at mmanley2@kc.rr.com.

JOHNSON CREEK RIDE CANCELLED

The Johnson Creek Ride scheduled for August 15 through 17, 2008, has been cancelled. Ride Manager Denise Maxwell reported that the only road to the ride site required major repairs and the engineers in charge of the project were unable to provide her with any estimate as to when the repairs might be completed. Further, there were concerns about damages to the trails, including downed trees and sink holes, as well as the possibility of having no potable water available. Therefore, Denise made the very difficult decision to cancel the ride. She states, "I would like to thank you all for the concern and the hope which you have expressed for keeping this ride alive in 2008, but I think that canceling is the best alternative at this point. I will refund the full amount of your paid registration to rider who have entered to date.”

NEBRASKA NATIONAL FOREST RIDE

With all of the recent ride cancellations, I urge you to get your entry in as early as possible for the Nebraska National Forest Ride at Halsey. The ride will be Labor Day weekend so hopefully this will afford you some extra travel time. There aren't many rides this summer that are available for Region 6 members, so use that gas money that you have saved up to make the trip west. We believe you will find this ride one of a kind, off the beaten path and the best footing found anywhere. Come enjoy the peace and serenity of the Nebraska Sandhills in the country's largest man-made forest. We will be having a delicious catered meal Saturday night so be sure to include your meal orders with your entry. See more information on the Region 6 website and please register through RMS if possible. Hope to see you there! John and Yvette Haeberle, Ride Secretary and Trailmaster.

?? Possible Protest in Region 6 ??

There has been a rumor circulating about a possible protest regarding the results at Whispering Pines CTR which took place last October. Actually, the protest has nothing to do with the ride results and all results will stand as is. The possible protest concerns the first ever “Miss Whispering Pines” pageant, which concluded with Janis Elder winning the title. Ms. Elder won the title after sharing how she used chapstick to ease her chaffing problem during a previous ride in Iowa. Ms. Elder was named Miss Whispering Pines after the audience laughed louder at her story than at the stories of the other contestants.

The first runner up, Christine Abbott, is thinking about filing a protest for the simple reason that it was HER chapstick that Janis Elder used. Ms. Abbott was quoted as saying, “Heck, I was just being a nice NATRC competitor by offering my chapstick to Janis when she was in severe pain. And then what happens? Ms. Elder wins the title because of my chapstick. I do not think that is fair. Without my chapstick, there would be no story and no crown for Ms. Elder. And on top of that, she tried to give the chapstick back to me after she used it. That’s just wrong.”

Ms. Abbott is thinking about filing a formal protest, which if supported, would take the title of Ms Whispering Pines from Ms. Elder and ban her from further competition. The problem is compounded in that Ms. Elder is Ms. Abbott’s much older sister, details to follow.
